The event was funded by a public communications grant from the City of Columbia and was planned to coincide with the school district's fall U Matter student conferences on making positive and healthy choices.

Legislative Update

Melissa Randol of the Missouri School Boards Association provided a legislative update. Highlights included:

- State funding, which is 12 percent lower this fiscal year than it was a decade ago and not expected to return to 2008 levels until 2016
- The $189 million supplemental bill known as the "jobs bill," which is being debated in the state Senate
- Possible additional revenue sources, such as cigarette, alcohol, and Internet taxes
- Open enrollment—the Supreme Court has said a child in an unaccredited district can transfer to an accredited adjoining district, which affects class size concerns and special education services; the unaccredited district must pay tuition and provide transportation
- Voucher legislation—this bill is likely to be defeated
- Charter school legislation—MSBA believes charter schools should only be decided by local communities and a vote
- Tenure reform bill (HB628)—it appears this bill will be defeated
