Ending paragraphs

Ending paragraphs shouldn't just have a moral slapped onto them. In your ending paragraph you really need to explain what you learned and how it has affected you.

1. What did you think about the experience when you reflected on it later?
2. How did your attitude about that event change?
3. How did it change your behavior in the future?

1. What did you think about the experience when you reflected on it later? I was embarrassed I had broken the rule, and mortified that I had gotten in trouble on my first chance to walk home alone.

2. How did your attitude about that event change?

   When I think back on my trouble with Farah, I realize she was just protecting her territory. I shouldn't have been in her yard.

3. How did it change your behavior in the future?

   Now whenever I consider breaking a rule, I also think about the consequences. My wounds healed from that experience, but I'll never forget that rules should be followed.

Ms. C’s Sample

I was embarrassed I had broken the rule, and mortified that I had gotten in trouble on my first chance to walk home alone. When I think back on my trouble with Farah, I realize she was just protecting her territory. I shouldn't have been in her yard. Now whenever I consider breaking a rule, I also think about the consequences. My wounds healed from that experience, but I'll never forget that rules should be followed.